A note from the Head of School

Greenville Christian School's name states that it is a school, but it is a particular kind of school. It is a school defined by our common interest and our commitment to furthering the Kingdom of God. Our common interest defines who we are, and it is a commitment we make to God and our families. Our commitment is identified by the psalmist in Psalm 78 5-8:

He decreed statutes for Jacob and established the law in Israel, which He commanded our ancestors
 to teach their children,
 so the next generation would know them,
 even the children yet to be born,
 and they in turn would tell their children.
 Then they would put their trust in God and would not forget His deeds but would keep His commands.

As a school community, GC's unique and common interest is first that it seeks to teach children to know the true God and His spoken word; so they would trust Him and obediently keep His commands. This commitment is first a response by the parents to the authority of God and supported by the faculty, staff, and administration.

This commitment is not accomplished without the grace of God. GC is a redemptive community in part because we, as sinners, fail at consistently reaching our commitment. God not only shows His glory in our community most when He saves and rescues individuals and us from going our own way, but also to walk in His ways. As God redeems individuals at GC, He equips us, "so the next generation would...tell their children" for His glory.

Grace and truth,

Mark Reisner
